

Preliminary capital gains distribution estimates

Mutual funds and ETFs typically distribute taxable capital gains to shareholders each December. Below is a list of Vanguard funds that were expected, as of October 31, 2025, to distribute taxable capital gains in December 2025.

To estimate the distribution for a fund on this list, multiply the fund's total per-share capital gains estimate by the number of shares owned.

These figures are only estimates. Actual year-end distributions may be higher or lower based on market volatility, portfolio and shareholder activity, and tax adjustments. On December 9, we plan to provide final estimates, including estimated income, for all funds. Final distribution amounts will be added to our fund-distribution table and each fund's profile page after the fund's declaration date in December.

Note: Funds not listed did not expect, as of October 31, 2025, to distribute capital gains in December.

All investing is subject to risk, including the possible loss of the money you invest.

Vanguard ETF Shares are not redeemable with the issuing Fund other than in very large aggregations worth millions of dollars. Instead, investors must buy and sell Vanguard ETF Shares in the secondary market and hold those shares in a brokerage account. In doing so, the investor may incur brokerage commissions and may pay more than net asset value when buying and receive less than net asset value when selling.

Municipal Money Market Funds: The Fund is only available to retail investors (natural persons). You could lose money by investing in the Fund. Although the Fund seeks to preserve the value of your investment at $1.00 per share, it cannot guarantee it will do so. The Fund may impose a fee upon the sale of your shares. An investment in the Fund is not a bank account and is not insured or guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any other government agency. The Fund's sponsor is not required to reimburse the Fund for losses, and you should not expect that the sponsor will provide financial support to the Fund at any time, including during periods of market stress.
